VOL. XVI.

STANFORD, KY., FRIDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1888.

NO. 92

IN MEMORIAM.

For the sake of accuracy and completeness in few matters, I desire to add a brief article to the very just account which you gave of the life of Mr. John Boughman in my editorial at the 18th inst. It is there stated that "more than 51 years ago he was married to Mrs. Catherine Smith," &c. I am informed, by a member of the family that his wife was a maiden lady at the time of their marriage. I would not write one word to dim the lustre of that noble character which you attribute to him. That "he lived his almost four score years abundantly blameless and above reproach" is a eulogy well merited and deserved to be inscribed upon the marble shaft that shall keep vigils over the grave in which so just a man sleeps until the morning of an eternal day shall dawn. But I desire to raise the question and furnish its answer: How is the blameless intent character of the subject of this article accounted for? Can human nature, as such, by virtue of its own inherent moral elements, under the teachings of any moral philosophy of man's devising, ever grow up into a life so just and so generous as was the life of John Boughman? Our answer is, no, no. Was he then a Christian? Those who know me, will hardly accuse me of writing or speaking of the dead so as to palliate the sin of neglecting hearty obedience to the gospel of Christ, or of holding out false hope for those who neglect to accept Jesus Christ. I desire to state, concerning the life of the deceased what I know to be facts.

He was the very devoted husband of a wife whose life has ever been full of the richest fruitage of the gospel of Christ. Through the whole of her Christian life her heart has been steadfastly fixed upon Jesus Christ, as she has never faltered in her efforts to win her husband as well as her children, to the same blessed Lord and Redeemer.

Many long years ago he decided to obey the gospel and unite with the church. He went to church on a certain day with that purpose. For some trivial reason (I have forgotten what he failed to do so). Subsequently, in a conversation with him, in his own house, he said to me that he could derive but little or no benefit by attending church, as he could hear nothing that was said, but that he intended to go to church some Sunday and have Bro. Ballou (who was then preaching for the church) to baptize him.

About two months previous to his death, and when he was quite feeble, it was my pleasure to visit him and talk a short time with him in his own house and in the presence of his faithful wife. I said to him then that we would probably never see each other again in this life, and that I desired to hear him express with his own mouth and in his own way, whatever his faith might be concerning Jesus Christ, the Son of God. I then put the question directly to him, "Do you believe in Jesus Christ, the Son of God, as your Savior?" He answered, "Yes, I believe in him as much as any of you." I then asked him if he desired to be baptized, assuring him it should be done if he desired. He replied, "no" nor could I persuade him otherwise. His reasons for refusing baptism were about as follows: that his life was now spent, that he could never attend church nor be of any advantage to any body and that he felt sure the Lord would forgive. These were his last words, and he died.

The services at the First Baptist church, Newport, last Sunday night, were especially interesting and beautiful. After the sermon the pastor without the slightest intimation of what was to follow, was asked to descend from the platform in front of the pulpit. John S. Barker, Esq., a prominent member of the church and one of Newport's most gifted lawyers, at the request of the committee, came forward and in terms beautiful and touching referred to the pastor as a preacher, a Christian and a gentleman, of the warm affection of his many friends for him and their deep regret at his determination to leave, after which the speaker drew from behind him a handsome gold headed ebony cane with the inscription, "R. B. Major, from Friends of the First Baptist Church, Newport, Ky., Dec. 2d, 1888," as a token of their love and esteem. The pastor's wife was also the recipient of some handsome presents from some source.

MT. VERNON, ROCKCASTLE COUNTY.

A number of dances during the week.
Rev. Carnical is holding a protracted meeting here.
Campbell Woodall has received a pension voucher for $1,700.

A dog, supposed to be mad, passed through town Wednesday and was flogged by several persons. The dog was chased from Blue Hill.

Negroes and drunken loafers took the town Monday night and made things howl. No efforts were made to arrest any of the disturbers.

John Todd, of Pulaski, and Miss Anna Burnett, of this county, were married yesterday. J. S. Brown, of Pulaski, was married to Miss Willie Brown Thursday. Wm. Pitman and Miss McClure were married at Christlin church here Sunday last.

A man leaped Capt. Cabell's train at Paris Wednesday and having no money to pay his fare the conductor signaled to the engineer to stop to let the man off. Before the train could be slackened up he leaped off and was fatally injured. He was taken back to the station where he died a few hours later. Have been unable to learn his name.

John T. Allen of this county, made application for pension at the close of the late war. He was unable to write and made his cross mark for a signature. Years passed on and nothing was heard from his application. In the meantime he attended school and secured a fair education. When his papers were returned he signed them up in a good flowing hand. It required two years to explain to the pension department how he learned to write after making his cross mark. He finally secured his money.

Parker, who left Brush Creek some time since on account of the Adams-Lawson land, have returned.

CHURCH AFFAIRS.

Evangelist Whorton, of Baltimore, has just closed a meeting at the First Baptist church with over 100 conversions.

The Bible says "Lest not thy left hand know what thy right hand doeth." So, while thanking the ladies for their beautiful presents to both the better half and well, the other half of the pastor, we cannot tell the men what our right hand in church-work so generously bestowed. But be it known it was the "right thing in the right place." May the blessings of God return from off the gifts to the pastor in words that breathe and thoughts that burn with the love of the truth and the Holy Spirit of God to refresh the hearts and lives of the generous donors. B. Helm, pastor of Presbyterian church, Stanford.

Gov. Gill has ordered an extraordinary term if the Court of Oyer and Terminer to be held in New York city, Judge Daniels presiding, and to continue until all the criminal casework is cleared up in the city. It is understood that the court is ordered for the express purpose of trying the "hoodlum" aldermen.

The Two Kingdoms.

To the Editor of the Interior Journal:
A few thoughts on what we will term for the want of a better introduction to what we wish to write—the Kingdom of Nature and the Kingdom of Heaven. And first. The kingdom of God's faith is the principle and ordinances the means of all spiritual enjoyment. Without faith in the testimony of God, a person is without God; without Christ and without hope in the world. A Christless universe, as respects spiritual life and joy, is the most perfect blank which fancy can create.

Without faith nothing in the Bible can be enjoyed; and without it there is to man no kingdom of Heaven in all the dominions of God. In the kingdom of nature sense is the principle and ordinances the means of enjoyment. Without sense or sensation nothing in nature can be known or enjoyed. All the creative, recuperative and renovating power, wisdom and goodness of God, exhibited in nature, are contained in ordinances. The sun, moon and stars, the clouds, the air, the water, the seasons, day and night are therefore denominated the ordinances of Heaven. Because God's power, wisdom and goodness are in them and felt by us only through them. Now, sense, without the ordinances of nature, like faith, without the ordinances of religion, would be no principle of enjoyment; and the ordinances of nature, without sense, would be no means of enjoyment. These are the unalterable decrees of God. There is no exception to them; and there is no reversal of them.

In the kingdom of Heaven faith is, then, the principle, and ordinances the means of enjoyment, because all the wisdom, power, love, mercy, compassion or grace of God is in the ordinances. Of the kingdom of Heaven; and if all grace be in them it can only be enjoyed through them; without the sun there is no solar influence; without the moon there is no lunar influence; without the stars there is no sidereal influence; without the clouds there can be no rain; and without the ordinances of the kingdom of Heaven there can be no heavenly influence exhibited or felt.

Now if the above be true, how applicable the sayings and teachings of the Savior as we find in Matthew's gospel, 7th chap., 21st, 22d, 23d, 24th, 25th, 26th and 27th verses, "Not every one that calls Lord, Lord, shall enter the kingdom of Heaven, but he that doeth the will of my Father Which is in Heaven. Many will say to me in that day, Lord, Lord, have we not prophesied in thy name, and in thy name cast out devils? and in thy name done many wonderful works? And then will I profess unto them, I never knew you; depart from me, ye that work iniquity. Therefore, whosoever heareth these sayings of mine and doeth them I will liken him unto a wise man which built his house on a rock, the rains descended and the floods came, and the winds blew and beat upon that house and it fell not, for it was founded upon a rock. And every one that heareth these sayings of mine and doeth them not, shall be likened unto a foolish man which built his house on the sand. And the rain descended and the floods came and the winds blew, and beat on that house, and it fell, and great was the fall of it."

Now Mr. Editor, if the above be true, where will many of us poor shipwrecked Christians be in the judgment? Be you not trouble for us?" Many are called but few chosen. If a man love me he will keep my words. If ye keep my commandments ye shall abide in my love."

The great Dr. Talmage believes in prayer, but always wants a big powwow to make it draw. If we were cursed with boils, and there was a failure in the crop, the injunction to pray without ceasing would not apply until another crop came on.

Benzley, Wallace, West, Gibbs, Duncan, Robinson, Price and Willard Kinnard.

Last Monday, county court day, brought to town the largest crowd that has been here for a long time. There was but little stock on the market, and but few sales. Everybody seemed to be loaded with money, and determined to use it in a way to make this a good Christmas to themselves and all about them. The immense business transacted here Monday, was strictly a Christmas business. The merchants in every branch of the trade claim larger sales and more cash than they have had for years. The following sales of live stock were made through Hubble & West: 4 head of horses brought from $105 to $135. 4 head of mules $135 to $165.

Good Dr. Eaton in a sermon preached against theatres and theatre going, points the christians to the Jews for a good example, and quotes from two infidels to show how horrid the theatre is. He commands the Jews because they have never had a theatre. Neither have they a Christ. We are not defending theatres or those who attend them, but as we pass but once through life, we are wont, when we see curious things, to stop and consider them. As intellecs and Jews deny Christ—the fundamental tenet and fact of Christianity, and all there is of it—and yet possess virtues and views so wholesome that the reverend gentleman disdains, to christians, some of their judgments as good and proper food, we naturally drift into thinking that possibly he might find something good in the theatre, and certainly nothing worse than an absolute denial of Christ and the inspiration of the scriptures.

BEGINNING with January 1st I intend adopting the cash system. I find that by paying cash for goods and selling for cash I will be enabled to sell goods much cheaper. I will be pleased to see good cash paying customers at my old stand. I will not vary from this rule. S. S. Myers.

CANDIDATES for governor are multiplying every week and the interest expressed foreshadows a warm canvass. There is strong desire manifested for new men and the younger class who are engaged in pushing the material development of Kentucky are clamorous for practical men for the offices. For the Lieutenant Governorship there is some talk of pushing James T. Trivens, of Louisville, and it is said that he has received overtures from various quarters.

Mr. Givens is one of the young men who have been hard at work developing Kentucky and has twice visited England to interest foreign syndicates in the State. He is a Lincoln county man by birth, but a Louisvillian by adoption and a mountaineer by interest. Mr. Trivens is young and energetic and might not want to give up his prospects in business for politics.

THE terrible accident at Bardstown Junction, caused by the running of passenger train No. 5, known as the "cannon ball," running between Louisville & Nashville, into the rend and to leaping a couple of cars of passenger train No. 23 of the Knoxville Division while the latter was taking on passengers, resulted in the death of two persons and the serious injury of 14 others. Cough medicine, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is in greater demand than ever. No preparation for Throat and Lung Troubles is so prompt in its effects, so agreeable to the taste, and so widely known as this. It is the family medicine in thousands of households.

"I have suffered for years from a bronchial trouble, that whenever I take cold or am exposed to inclement weather, shows itself in a very annoying tickling sensation in the throat and by taking a few drops of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral it relieves me almost entirely. I have tried many remedies, but none does so well as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral which always gives prompt relief. In returns of my old complaints!" — Ernest A. Hepper, Inspector of Public Roads, Parish Terre Haute, Ind.

"I consider Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a most important remedy."

For Home Use.

have tested its curative power, in my family, many times during the past thirty years, and have never known it to fail. It will relieve the most serious afflictions of the throat and lungs, whether in children or adults." — Mrs. E. G. Edinger, Council Bluffs, Iowa.

"Twenty years ago I was troubled with a case of Consumption. Doctors afforded me no relief and considered me case hopeless. I then began to use Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and before I had finished one bottle, found relief. I continued to take this medicine until a cure was effected. I believe that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved my life." — Samuel Griggs, Wanakena, N.Y.

"Six years ago I contracted a severe cold which settled on my lungs and soon developed all the alarming symptoms of Consumption. I had a cough, night sweats, bleeding of the lungs, pain in chest and sides, and was so prostrated that I could not move most of the time. After trying various prescriptions, without benefit, my physician finally determined to give me Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I took it, and the effect was magical. I seemed to rally from the first dose of this medicine, and, after using only three bottles, am as well and sound as ever." — Rodney Johnson, Springfield, Ill.

OUR YOUNG FOLKS.

PIP.

Abilene Pip was a comely chick; so soft and downy, and two such bright, black eyes! Polly thought him the very sweetest little thing in all the world. She had such a tender little heart, that when Pip's mother was run over by the farm wagon she begged her grandpa for it.

"I will be his mother," she said. "I have learned to know that he had only to cry 'Peep, peep, peep!' and Polly would run to him fast as she could. He was very naughty about it, too, and would wake Polly at night very often, to give her some beans soaked in water.

Polly would rub her sleepy eyes, and say: "Pip dear, if you just wouldn't get hungry at night, I'd surely give you more beans."

When Polly's little friends came to ask her to go out to play, she would shake her hand and say: "I can't go, because Pip gets so lonesome." One day grandpa persuaded Polly to leave Pip long enough to go with her to visit a sick friend.

"Take good care of Pip, mamma," said Polly; and mamma promised to be very careful.

Pip sat on her hand while she wrote a letter, and peeked at her fingers until he grew

ALLEGED HUMOR.

A TRUE STORY.

The Beacon and his wife sorrowfully decide that their favorite pet, having taken to killing chickens, must die.

He attaches a dynamite cartridge, and lights the fuse.

She is alarmed by the hissing fuse, breaks away and starts for home, rapidly overtaking the Beacon, who now runs for his life.

Tired, then he tried to put his little head under his wing to go to sleep.

Mamma soon forgot all about him; and when she came to look for him found that he had slipped down into the folds of her dress and was dead.

When Polly came home she ran into the house, crying:

"Where's my dear Pip?" But poor Pip lay in mamma's hand, on his back with his little claws clutched up, and his little eyes tightly closed.

Then Polly cried until Uncle Bob took her on his knee and told her he would carve her a beautiful stone to put on Pip's grave.

Polly dried her eyes and put Pip in a little box lined with cotton. Aunt Fan gave her a bunch of flowers tied with white ribbon. After the stone was finished, Polly printed on it, in her very best letters:

"My Dear Pip,
Age 13 Weeks."

"I loved Pip ever so much," said Polly, afterwards, to her mamma; "but I am real glad I can go out to play with the girls again; and then, we had such a beautiful funeral!" — Lois Trenth Brooks, in Our Little Ones.

THE RING TOP.

An Amazing Plaything for the Boys—How It Is Made.

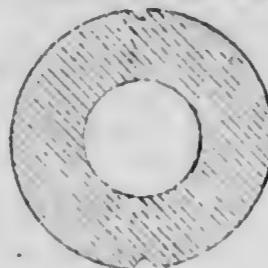

A good deal of fun can be had with the ring top, it being one of the easiest things to make imaginable. Herewith we give it in its smallest size:

It is simply a flat ring, about eight of an inch thick, with two nests on opposite sides. Such a circle can easily be cut out of a piece of cigar-box wood. As the central hole need not be cut, the making of such a disk will not occupy more than ten minutes. In fact, a large penny, nicked with a file, will answer every purpose, to begin with.

The strange thing about the ring top is that it is spun with the legs, the hands having very little to do with it.

A piece of string about a yard long has its opposite ends tied together, and into it are slipped the legs to about the level of the shoulders.

The legs are then kept apart in a criss-cross fashion, and the top being placed upright in the centre, has the string put in

How to Read the Papers.

If instead of reading a newspaper article in the usual way a person reads the lines horizontally across the columns some strange combinations will be developed. For instance, a few days ago there appeared in a New York paper an item about an interview with Mayer Hewitt, while in the next column was an account of a fatal accident. By taking a sentence of each article the following unique combination was obtained:

Our reporter called at the mayor's office and was much gratified to find that his master was in but the infuriated animal rushed upon his unsuspecting victim, trampling him under his hoof and goring him with horns beyond recognition. The unfortunate man was rescued in a miraculous condition.

Here are a few more samples of mixed paragraphs:

It is to receive six hundred dollars a night for her future appearance in New York. Those who desire to hear this wonderful contralto should secure their tickets in advance of the long office of Levi & Jacobson, Eleventh street. Liberal advances made in all kinds of personal property. All transactions strictly confidential. If you want a perfect fine winter overcoat of the most durable material—try Dr. Blank's vegetable remedies. They treat all the surfaces and organs so that the entire system responds. Simple box seat free. They never fail to produce the desired effect.

The next trial of boxer Alferino McNamee will take place at an early day by the celebrated New York Novelty and Burlesque Company, whose luminary Punch and Judy show is attracting immense crowds. The amount of McNamee's bid has been fixed at twenty thousand dollars by Roscoe Smith.

There is no truth in the rumor that the beautiful Miss McNamee is going to wed on English Duke, as the individual in question having escaped from the pen, crossed through the transom over the door, dropped twelve feet to the ground, and made good his escape. A large reward is offered for his capture.

The game is played by two or more, who stand at opposite ends of the room, and try to catch each other attempt to strike each other on the way, the top going fastest through the transom over the door, dropped twelve feet to the ground, and made good his escape. A large reward is offered for his capture.

FAILE TO PUNCH WITH CARE.

each night, and it is twisted round and round until the string will twist no more. The legs are then pressed apart, the string un-twisted, and the ring is shot out, and sent rolling along the floor straight and true for a moment.

Rings three or four inches in diameter can be sent straight along high sheets and with astonishing accuracy of aim, the essentials being that the string should be round and not cling to the nests, and the ring should not be too large to prevent its slipping off readily.

Of course, they can be shot by the hands as well as the feet, and any thing circular, duly nicked, such as curtain rings, candle sticks, box tops and toy wheels, can be passed into the service, due regard being paid to the fact that the heavier the internal the greater the momentum, and the further and the straighter it will go. — Golden Days.

Conductor to slow passenger.—Why don't you keep your ticket stuck in your hat like this gent here? Then I wouldn't have to wait a week for you, — Judge.

Why He Prayed.

Minister—Do you say your prayers, Tommy?

Tommy—Yes, sir.

Minister—Do you always pray for strength in the hour of temptation?

Tommy—All but once.

Minister—Why didn't you pray for strength that time?

Tommy—Because Billy Williams licked me so quick that I hadn't time to pray. I've been prayin' for strength ever since, and as soon as I git enough muscle you bet your sweet life I'll do him. — Archie Record.

A Great Indulgence.

Miss Brown—Why, what's the matter, Mr. Paulie? You look fatigued—hard work?

Mr. Paulie—No, not that exactly; but I went to church three times last Sunday—at different church houses—and 'twas the same old thing at all three.

Miss Brown—Well, why don't you come over to our church? We have good music, comfortable pews, and not one word about Robert Bismarck. — Archie Record.

These are the days when the small boy, who shrikes if his face is washed in cold water, feels only a thrill of delight as his little fingers mold the frigid snow-ball. Truly, the will is the real creator of conditions.

Constipation

Demands prompt treatment. The results of neglect may be serious. Avoid all harsh and drastic purgatives, the tendency of which is to weaken the bowels. The best remedy is Ayer's Pills. Being purely vegetable, their action is prompt and their effect always beneficial. They are an admirable Liver and After-dinner pill, and everywhere endorsed by the profession.

Ayer's Pills are highly and universally spoken of by the people about here. I would advise them to them in particular." — Dr. L. E. Fowler, Bridgeport, Conn.

"I can recommend Ayer's Pills above all others, having long proved their value as a cathartic for myself and family." — J. T. Hess, Lexington, Ky.

"For several years Ayer's Pills have been used in my family. We find them for constipation and indigestion, and are never without them in the house." — Moses Greiner, Lowell, Mass.

"I have used Ayer's Pills, for liver troubles and indigestion, during many years, and have always found them prompt and efficient in their action." — L. N. Smith, Utica, N.Y.

"I suffered from constipation which assumed such an obstinate form that I feared it would cause a stoppage of the bowels. Two boxes of Ayer's Pills effected a complete cure." — D. Burke, Saugerties, N.Y.

"I have used Ayer's Pills for the past thirty years and consider them an invaluable family medicine. I know of no better remedy for liver troubles, and have always found them a prompt cure for dyspepsia." — James Quinn, 30 Middle st., Hartford, Conn.

"Having been troubled with constipation which seems invincible with persons of sedentary habits, I have tried Ayer's Pills, hoping for relief. I am glad to say that they have served me better than any other medicine. I arrive at this conclusion only after a faithful trial of their merits." — Samuel T. Jones, Oak st., Boston, Mass.
